Bitcoin (BTC) Price Turmoil Wipes Out $1 Billion in Liquidations

BeInCrypto

Bitcoin experienced elevated volatility this week, falling to ~$94,000 on Tuesday before recovering to the $100,000 mark. While many blamed profit-taking and excess leverage for the dip, which resulted in ~$1.8b of 24h liquidations and hit altcoins particularly hard, some also expressed worries around the amount of monetary accommodation from the Fed next year as well as the potential for the markets to have already priced in much of the forthcoming more positive US crypto stance. Nevertheless, crypto markets quickly recovered, helped in part by US inflation coming in as expected and setting up a likely Fed cut next week.

BlackRock recommends bitcoin allocation of up to 2% in multi-asset portfolios

The Block Crypto News

BlackRock, the world's largest asset manager with $11.5 trillion in assets under management and issuer of the largest spot Bitcoin ETF, recommended allocating up to 2% of some investors' portfolios to bitcoin in a report released Thursday. In the report, BlackRock outlined how to approach including bitcoin in a "multi-asset portfolio" and called 1% to 2% a "reasonable range for a bitcoin exposure."

Google's Quantum Computing Chip Raises Questions About Bitcoin's Security

The Defiant

Google unveiled a new quantum chip this week called Willow, causing some to worry about Bitcoin security. While Bitcoin relies on two types of encryption - ECDSA 256 and SHA-256 - that are safe, there are fears around early Bitcoin UTXOs that use the P2PK script, which is no longer in use. This caused Avalanche founder Emin Gun Sirer to suggest that the Bitcoin community examine freezing Satoshi's coins or providing a sunset date and freeze all coins at P2PK UTXOs.

MARA Holdings buys $1.1B more Bitcoin, hits industry-first 50 EH/s

Cointelegraph

MARA Holdings, the Bitcoin miner formerly known as Marathon Digital, purchased 11,774 Bitcoin for $1.1b after successfully completing a convertible debt offering. MARA now has 40,435 BTC worth $4.1b. In addition, MARA achieved a hashrate of 50 EH/s, the first in the industry. MARA's hashrate was 36.9 EH/s at the end of 3Q, and it achieved its hashrate target prior to its end of year goal.

Russian lawmaker proposes strategic Bitcoin reserve to counter geopolitical challenges

CryptoSlate

A Russian lawmaker proposed a national Bitcoin reserve to counter sanctions and enhance financial stability, following President Putin's positive remarks on crypto. Other jurisdictions have seen lawmakers make similar proposals, including Japan and Hong Kong, while others have submitted bills to bring one about, including the US, Brazil, and Argentina.
